ACCXEL- CONSTRUCTION SKILLS ACCELERATOR CENTRE

AccXel is a state-of-the-art centre of excellence to inspire, train and connect people entering and advancing within the construction industry.

Located in Cinderford, Gloucestershire, the pioneering centre is co-funded by KW Bell Group and the Government's Getting Building Fund awarded by Gloucestershire's Local Enterprise Partnership (GFirst LEP). In collaboration with Gloucestershire College and the University of Gloucestershire, with support from local employers and industry partners AccXel will provide 980m2 learning space to deliver CITB and industry qualifications, 'Introduction to Construction' Key Stage 4 School Programme and apprenticeships.

ABOUT THE CENTRE

The new training centre is developed by the industry, for the industry and will accelerate learning and equip workers with knowledge and practical experience of the latest technological advances in sustainability and digital construction. With our great partnership we were able to supply and delivery product to coincide with the site schedule - allowing the project to progress with little interruption.

"We are proud to support our valued customer, KW Bell Group and the work that they are doing with this project. Improving standards across the industry and developing our colleagues are very important to us here at Keyline, so it's great to have the opportunity to work on a project that is doing exactly this for the- wider industry" - Dean Pinner, Managing Director of Keyline Civils Specialist

ADDRESSING THE SKILLS GAP

The construction industry has a serious skills shortage, both nationally and regionally. This is where AccXel plays a vital role in connecting individuals, educators and employers to understand how construction is changing and invest in developing people with the skills required to support its needs now and in the future.

"KW Bell Group has always had a fantastic relationship with Keyline. They have embraced, supported, and encouraged every generation and gender of the Bell family, and now they support us in our journey with AccXel to support many more people to construct their own futures" - Nicola Bell, Founder and Managing Director of AccXel.
